NOTES ON

THE SALE OF FOOD AND DRUGS ACTS.

Prior to the year 1860, legislation against adulteration dealt with only a few articles of food, and was enforced mainly for the benefit of the Inland Revenue. It was an offence at common law to adulterate food, but no provision was made for analysing samples, and action was seldom taken. In 1860, the "Adulteration of Foods Act," to prohibit the sale of adulterated articles of food and drink, was passed; it was extended to include drugs by an amending Act in 1872. These Acts, however, were repealed by the "Sale of Food and Drugs Act," 1875, which itself has been amended by further Acts of 1879 and 1899. Under these Acts, any suspected article of food or drug, which may be the subject of a prosecution, is required to be analysed by a Public Analyst, who must give a certificate of his analysis, and, every quarter, furnish a report of his work under the Act to the Local Authority.

In a court of law, certificates issued by a Public Analyst, whether acting for the prosecuting authority or for the defendant, are accepted as evidence of the facts stated therein, without the Analyst himself being present. In any case, however, the personal attendance of the Analyst may be required by either side.

Public Analysts are appointed under Section 10 of the "Sale of Food and Drugs Act," 1875, which is as follows :—

"Appointments and Duties of Analysts, and Proceedings to obtain Analysis.

10. In the City of London and the liberties thereof the Commissioners of Sewers of the City of London and the liberties thereof, and in all other parts of the metropolis the vestries and district boards acting in execution of the Act for the better local management of the metropolis, the court of quarter sessions of every county, and the town council of every borough having a separate court of quarter sessions, or having under any general or local Act of Parliament or otherwise a separate police establishment, may, as soon as convenient after the passing of this Act, where no appointment has been hitherto made, and in all cases as and when vacancies in the office occur, or when required so to do by the Local Government Board, shall, for their respective city, districts, counties, or boroughs, appoint one or more persons possessing competent knowledge, skill, and experience, as analysts of all articles of food and drugs sold within the said city, metropolitan districts, counties, or boroughs, and shall pay to such analysts such remuneration as shall be mutually agreed upon, and may remove him or them as they shall deem proper; but such appointments and removals shall at all times be subject to the approval of the Local Government Board, who may require satisfactory proof of competency to be supplied to them, and may give their approval absolutely or with modifications as to the period of the appointment and removal, or otherwise: Provided that no person shall hereafter be appointed an analyst for any place under this section who shall be engaged directly or indirectly in any trade or business connected with the sale of food or drugs in such place. In Scotland the like powers shall be conferred and the like duties shall be imposed upon the commissioners of supply at their ordinary meetings for counties, and the commissioners or boards of police, or where there are no such commissioners or boards, upon the town councils for boroughs within their several jurisdictions; provided that one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State in Scotland shall be substituted for the Local Government Board of England. In Ireland the like powers and duties shall be conferred and imposed respectively upon the grand jury of every county and town council of every borough; provided that the Local Government Board of Ireland shall be substituted for the Local Government Board of England."

Since 1875 many changes have taken place in the constitution of Local Authorities, largely owing to the creation of County and Borough Councils. The section quoted above was merely permissive, and many Local Authorities failed to appoint Analysts, or took very few samples. To remedy this, the following clause was inserted in the Act of 1889 making the appointment of a Public Analyst compulsory on all competent Local Authorities :—

“It shall be the duty of every Local Authority entrusted with the execution of the laws relating to the sale of food and drugs to appoint a Public Analyst, and put in force from time to time, as occasion may arise, the powers with which they are invested, so as to provide proper securities for the sale of food and drugs in a pure and genuine condition, and in particular to direct their officers to take samples for analysis.”

In the event of the Local Authority failing to utilise or insufficiently utilising the services of a Public Analyst, the Act of 1899 gives to the Local Government Boards and the Board of Agriculture power to enforce its provisions at the expense of such Authority, and to purchase samples and submit them to the Public Analyst.

In the following clause, the Local Government Board is also empowered to define the qualifications which must be possessed by candidates for appointment as Public Analysts :—

“Any Public Analyst appointed under the Sale of Food and Drugs Acts shall furnish such proof of competency as may from time to time be required by regulation framed by the Local Government Board.”

In accordance with the above section, the Local Government Boards have framed regulations under which the qualifications of the Institute of Chemistry are recognised :—

Extract from the Regulation as to Competency of Public Analysts, issued by the Local Government Board for England and Wales, on the 8th of March, 1900 :—

“As regards the reference in the Order to a person or body of persons whom the Board may from time to time recognize as competent to confer the requisite qualification or to test the skill or knowledge of which proof is required by the Order, the Board may state that it would accord with their existing practice to accept as sufficient documentary evidence of the requisite qualification under the Acts the Diploma of Fellowship or Associateship of the Institute of Chemistry of Great Britain and Ireland, together with the Certificate granted by the Institute after an examination, conducted by them on lines approved by the Board, in Therapeutics, Pharmacology, and Microscopy.”

Extract from the Regulation as to Competency of Public Analysts, issued by the Local Government Board, Edinburgh, on the 17th of April, 1900 :—

“As regards the reference in the Order to a person or body of persons whom the Board may from time to time recognise as competent to confer the requisite qualification or to test the skill or knowledge of which proof is required by the Order, the Board are prepared to accept as sufficient documentary evidence of the requisite qualification under the Acts the Diploma of Fellowship or Associateship of the Institute of Chemistry of Great Britain and Ireland, together with the Certificate granted by the Institute after an examination, conducted by them on lines approved by the Board, in Therapeutics, Pharmacology, and Microscopy.”

The Local Government Board for Ireland have officially informed the Council of the Institute that they are “Prepared to accept as sufficient documentary evidence of the requisite qualification for appointment as Public Analyst under the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1899, the Diploma of F.I.C. or A.I.C., together with the Certificate granted by the Institute of Chemistry of Great Britain and Ireland after an examination in Therapeutics, Pharmacology and Microscopy.”
